

30 years around the world

Locations

by Alexis

30 years around the world

Locations

by Alexis

© 2012 dall'autore di questo libro. L'autore detiene il copyright sui propri contributi a questo libro.

Layout ed elementi grafici forniti da Blurb sono copyright di Blurb Inc., 2012. Questo libro è stato creato con i servizi editoriali creativi di Blurb. L'autore detiene il copyright sui propri contributi a questo libro.

30 years of travelling

I always travelled. When I was one year old my parents moved from Greece to the USA. Today it appears exotic, but at that time (1960) it was usual to cross the Atlantic aboard liners (some of them really beautiful ...). It took us 14 days to go from Piraeus to New York after calling to Messina, Lisbon and Halifax (CA). It took always 14 days to cross the Atlantic back 3 years later when my parents decided to come back to Greece. I have no memories of these early travels. My mother used to describe colourfully this adventure mostly as far as going was concerned: she was alone with two children (my brother of 5 and myself just 1; my father having moved already some months before). It can be however, that this early travelling already gave me some initial taste ...

My travelling memories start around the mid-60s, when my parents used to travel around Greece using a Peugeot 403 (bought in the USA). They were brave in beating off the track locations and eventually we slept all together in this car: a rudimentary camping car (compared with what circulates today) with which we discovered large part of the remote Greek countryside and many secluded locations. Later on, the arrival of my sister obliged my parents to go for more comfort buying a caravan with which we continued travelling around the country: these was times where a Greek family travelling with a caravan was something completely unknown and I suppose even difficult to understand. Now if I am talking about these early experiences is not just to register my childhood memories. I suppose that having been used since very young in travelling (potentially in an unconventional way) and having like it (actually my brother transformed this pleasure in job: www.trekking.gr), this might have been one of the reasons for which I practically never stopped and this explains “30 years around the world”.

I jump ahead in the time. At the late-70s I moved myself in Italy in order to continue studying. While there I met a beautiful girl, Emanuela. There are (I suppose) several reasons for which we still live together, but certainly one has been our common passion for travelling. When in 1981 we decided to get married (surprising parents and friends) we were so poor that we did our honey moon hitchhiking. But we did it. This is a crucial point. Travelling is a social activity. Sharing your travelling experience with somebody is important. I also extensively travelled alone (mainly for professional reasons), but the most exciting travelling experiences occurred while we travelled together. These 30 years around the world are our 30 years around the world although seen through my photos.

As a student I have continued travelling (hitchhiking in Italy, Greece and around Europe). However, when I graduated in 1983 we decided for the first time to head outside Europe. It was August of 1983 and we were at the Greek island of Lesbos when we decided to cross to Ayvalik and then continue to Izmir, Kayseri and then Kapadochia (at that time virtually tourist free ... it is unbelievable today) before turning to Istanbul and then back to Greece. Wow!! We discovered such a new, different fascinating world just around the corner, populated by nice and friendly people. What a shock for a Greek!! The ones which, for my education, were expected to be the “enemies” were polite, well educated, friendly, with that innate sense of hospitality we only have in that part of the world; they were so similar, so similar to me for so many aspects of cultural identity. The “enemies” were the nearest cultural brothers I have met until that time (and not surprising they remain such after 30 years ...). This first travel, besides leading us in some of the most beautiful places around the planet has been an extraordinary mind opening experience.

I have no photos of that first travel. But that experience excited us. Some months later, in December 1983 we caught an opportunity and flew to Cairo and then travelled around the country down under the Sudanese border and up to the just opened (after the Camp David agreements) Sinai region. I still remember the astonished greek monks at the St. Katherine monastery receiving a greek-italian couple of visitors after some tens of years of almost complete isolation. Second unforgettable experience helping to build a solid conviction: travelling is beautiful!

That was happening more than 30 years ago ... The summary of our travels can be seen in Table 1. Some of them consisted in visiting a country, but most of them have been travels crossing a region of the world for some given purpose or opportunity. It has been the case when in 1997 we travelled from Dar-Es-Salaam to Cape Town using the TAZARA railway (until Zambia) and the existing network down to the Cape. The same when in 1999 we crossed the Siberia going to Mongolia and China using the Tran-Siberian railway and the Chinese network. It has also been the case when we crossed the Sahara desert in the late-80s, when we did a round the world trip in 2003 (which took several months) or when we did a round the East-Mediterranean travel in 2010.

In 1990 our son Sirio was born. Since 1998 and for almost 10 years he travelled with us to all destinations. Despite what many people think about travelling with kids it has been (and can be) a great experience, provided some basic precautions are kept: visit malaria free areas, include in the travel places and situations where kids can have their fun, travel (at least partially) with people who also have kids. Sirio seems he has appreciated. He is now travelling alone (with his friends). I hope he got the right travelling tastes ...

Of course we extensively travelled in Europe, certainly in Italy and Greece (obviously ...), but also in Spain, Portugal, Switzerland, Austria, France, Belgium, the Netherlands ... the most exciting place perhaps being Iceland (but being there primarily for professional reasons I did not take any pictures ... what a shame ...). I also extensively travelled for professional reasons. Most of the times such travels are difficult to distinguish one from another. Hong Kong, Singapore, New York, Boston, Nice, Brussels, Johannesburg, Tokyo, Seoul, Dakar, Moscow, Warsaw, Madrid, just to mention some of the cities I visited in these years for professional reasons, can look very similar when somebody flies in the morning and leaves the day after (or two days after), considering that most Hotels, Universities and Companies headquarters are nowadays so similar ... However, it happened I had the time to spend visiting (in Japan, in Israel, in Russia, in Madagascar, in Burkina Faso, in Senegal ...). I rarely took photos during these visits (you are not really thinking about it and more over I never carry my photo equipment with me in such occasions). I carry however, the images and the experiences of these travels as from the other ones, mostly because of the people I had the opportunity to meet.

Interestingly enough in these 30 years (and more) I never had real negative experiences. We travelled with buses, trains, cars, ships, boats, donkeys, horses and camels, by feet, by public transport, hitchhiking, using our own means ... I flew with almost any type of flying equipment, I boarded almost any type of vessel and I met any type of people. I met humble peasants and rich landlords, poor students and wealthy businessmen, illiterate fishermen and fine intellectuals under any conceivable circumstance from sharing a boat crossing a river to official dinners. My overall experience is that most of the people are kind, polite, friendly and fundamentally easy to approach. And this experience crosses the education level, the type of profession, the geographic origin, sex and culture of the people we met. It also falsifies the usual reputations we construct (or we are induced to construct): despite taxi-drivers worldwide hold one of the worst reputations, one of the kindest person we ever met is a taxi-driver at Amman, Jordan, who stopped his taxi in the middle of nowhere to give us two just baked forms of bread, having noted in the middle of the night the bakery working: “you might be hungry after crossing the desert” he told us!!

In these 30 years I have only once been stolen a camera (in Taj Mahal, India) and nothing else, which is an amazing low rate considering the opportunities we offered to International Thieves Co. In these 30 years we met men and women who made us richer and better, discussing, eating, travelling, drinking, bargaining, sharing and exchanging ... It has been the most exciting part of these 30 years of travelling.

As one can imagine during these years I shot thousands of photos. In the early years, when films were necessary I was shooting with parsimony (professional films were not available in most places and you cannot carry unlimited stock within limited space). This parsimonious attitude persists until today, although digital shooting is practically “unlimited”. Despite that my files contain thousands of photos. When I decided to make this book I had to choose. With the help of Emanuela I chose a “representative sample” of this 30 years long material. That makes approximately 600 photos ... These needed to be organized. There exist several ways to do it, but finally I opted for identifying one common element independent from the location and the time when the photo was shot. This is of course an ex-post rationalization (I shot what I liked as most amateurs do, without any project in mind); the result are the six sections in which the photos have been divided: details, locations, nature, people, skies and water.

“Details” contains photos capturing details of objects, people, situations which I felt had a stand-alone meaning; it is the detail itself which explains the photo.

“Locations” is characterised by the place where the photo was shot. Saying it in other terms it is the location that inspired me in realising the image.

“Nature” obviously narrates the nature in its multiple forms and situations. Natures as I saw it in its complexity and impressive generosity of colours and shapes.

“People” collects the images of the people who shared their time with us. Those with whom we travelled, laughed, ate, discussed or even shared a smile. Most of these photos have been shot asking the permission of the interested. To them go my heartiest acknowledgements for all they offered to us.

“Skies” contains what I have seen above my head ... You will note a certain attraction by the clouds. I have been fascinated by them since ever. And I still get lost behind them.

“Water” shows my personal vision of the natural element which most attracted me until today. An irresistible attraction; only Emanuela has been able to beat it ...

To those passionate of technical details, the photos have been taken using three (in time) equipment. The first one was a Nikkormat FN300 (to be honest I started taking photos with a Zenith in the late 70s, but this is another story ...) equipped with fix length lenses (28, 52, 105 Nikkor and a Vivitar 300). Then in the early 2000 I moved to a Nikon F75 equipped with a 28-200 lens. These were times when we need to use film, which most of the time (let's say 80% of the times) has been Ektachrome professional at 100 ASA, occasionally used at 400 ASA (however, the reader may distinguish some few photos in Kodakchrome 25 ASA). In 2008 I finally decided to go digital (although I really suffered doing so) and got a Nikon D40 equipped with two lenses: a 18-55 and a 55 - 200. All recent photos are done with this camera.

Is there a one single place which we loved more than others? No. Certainly there have been places which impressed us more than others, but the big experience has been the travelling itself. Is there a photo that can summarise this experience? Yes! It is the photo of the young boy swimming in the Niger river near the canoe within which we were travelling. The movement of the water amplifies the smile of the boy and I like to think to this "smile" as the essence of our travelling: having received the smiles and the kindness of all the people we met. We hope we have been able to smile to them as they did to us. To all these people this book is dedicated!

Athens, July 2014

Main travels out of Europe not for professional reasons

- 1983 Turkey, Egypt
- 1985 Tunisia, India (partly in 1986)
- 1986 Sahara (Algeria)
- 1987 Sahara (Algeria)
- 1988 Sahara (Mali, Niger), Togo, Ghana
- 1993 Morocco
- 1994 Jordan
- 1997 Zanzibar, Tanzania, Zambia, Zimbabwe, South Africa, Russia
- 1998 USA
- 1999 Russia (Siberia), Mongolia, Cina
- 2000 Mexico
- 2001 Cuba
- 2003 USA, Canada, Chile (Easter Island), Polynesia, Cook Islands, Fiji Islands, New Zealand, Australia
- 2006 Nicaragua
- 2007 South Africa
- 2008 Turkey (Kurdistan), New Zealand (partly in 2009)
- 2009 Tunisia, Libya, Egypt, Jordan, Syria, Turkey (partly in 2010)
- 2010 Tunisia, Sahara (Libya, partly in 2011)
- 2011 Turkey, Georgia, Armenia, Venezuela
- 2013 Argentina, Chile (Terra del Fuego, Patagonia)

Professional travels outside Europe besides the above

Algeria, Burkina Faso, Canada, Chile, China, Japan, Israel, Kenya, Madagascar, Mali, Morocco, Niger, Russia, Senegal, Singapore, South Africa, Tanzania, Tunisia, Turkey, USA.

Visited several times (for private and professional reasons) almost any country in Europe, but still missing Bosnia, Malta, Moldavia, Montenegro, Romania and Ukraine.

New York, 1998
Next page: both photos, New York, 2003
Previous page: both photos, Greece, Limnos. 2000

Rapanoui, 2003
Next two pages: same location and year
Previous page:
New Zealand,
Pumakaiki, 2009

South Africa, Uppington, 2007
Previous page: left: Greece, Korinthos, 1986; right: Australia, Adelaide to Darwin, 2003
Next double page: USA, Golden Gate, 1998

Greece, Vourvourou, 1996

Next page: Venezuela, Los Roques, 2011

Previous pages: left up: New Zealand, Bluff, 2009; left down: Chile, Patagonia, 2013; right up: Argentina, Ushuaia, 2013; right down: Argentina, Patagonia, 2013

Italy, Ravello, 1997
Previous page:
Italy, Amalfi, 1997

Greece, Samothraki, 2000
Nextpage: Greece, Delfi, 1986

Libya, Cyrenne, 2009

Previous page: Egypt, Hatsepsut Temple, 1983

Next pages: left-left: Libya, Leptis Magna, 2009; left-right: same location; right-left: same location; right-right: Syria, Palmira, 2010

Jordan, Petra, 1994
Previous page: same location
Next pages: left: Jordan, Petra, 1994; right: Algeria, Timimun, 1987

Algeria, Timimun,
1987
Previous page:
Mexico, Zacatecas,
2000

Mexico, Kabah, 2000

Previous page: left: India, Jaipur, 1985; left: Mexico, Mexico City, 2000

Next double page: Nicaragua, Granada, 2006

Italy, Venice, 1984

Previous page: Syria, Damascus, 2010

Next pages: left: Russia, St. Petersburg, 1997; right-right: Italy, Florence, 198; right-left: Mexico, Chichen Itza, 2000

Greece, Karpathos,
1988
Next page:
up: Greece,
Karpathos, 1988;
down: Greece, Crete,
1979

Greece, Pilion, 1985

Previous page: up: Tunisia, Hammamet, 1985; down: Greece, Corfu, 1995

Next pages: left-left: Greece, Corfu, 1995; left-right: Greece, Kastelorizo, 1988; right-up: Greece, Kastelorizo, 1988; right-down: South Africa, Lambert's bay, 2007

Syria, Serjilla, 2010
Next page:
up: France, Mont-Cenis, 2010;
down: Syria,
Zenobia's Castle,
2010

Syria, Serjilla, 2010
Next page: Italy, Erice, 2010

Japan, Miyazima,
1992
Previous page:
up: Japan,
Miyazima, 1992;
down: Cina,
Datong, 1999

Cina, Great Wall,
1999
Next page:
left: Cina, Beijing, 1999;
right: Syria, Bassra,
2010

Morocco, Atlas mountains, 1993
Next page: Mali, Dogon villages, 1987

Mali, Dogon villages,
1987
Next page: Mali,
Mopti, 1987
Next double page:
Algeria, Sahara
desert, 1986

Greece, Thassos, 2009 down: Algeria, Tademait, 1986
Next page:
up: Algeria, Tademait, 1986
down: Algeria, Assekrem, 1986
Next double page:
Libya, Sahara desert, 2011

New Zealand, Tunnel beach, Dunedin, 2009

Previous pages: left: Libya, Sahara desert, 2011; right: New Zealand, Farewell Spit, 2009

Next page: up: New Zealand, Lake Wakatipu, 2009; down: New Zealand, Lake Tekapu, 2009

Netherlands,
Polders, 1992
Previous page:
up: South Africa,
Cape Town,
1997
down:
Netherlands,
Delft, 1992

Russia, Lake Baikal, 1999
Next page: Italy, Saline Sicily, 2010
Next two pages: Italy, Trapani, 2010
Last page: up and down: Australia, Devil's Marbles, 2003

Index of the photos.

Greece, Limnos, 2000	9
Greece, Limnos, 2000	9
New York, 1998	10
New York, 2003	11
New York, 2003	11
New Zealand, Punakaiki, 2009	12
Rapanoui, 2003	13
Rapanoui, 2003	14
Rapanoui, 2003	14
Rapanoui, 2003	15
Greece, Korinthos, 1986	16
Australia, Adelaide - Darwin, 2003	16
South Africa, Uppington, 2007	17
USA, Golden Gate, 1998	18
New Zealand, Bluff, 2009	20
Chile, Patagonia, 2013	20
Argentina, Ushuaia, 2013	21
Argentina, Patagonia, 2013	21
Greece, Vourvourou, 1996	22
Venezuela, Los Roques, 2011	23
Italy, Amalfi, 1997	24
Italy, Ravello, 1997	25
Greece, Samothraki, 2000	26
Greece, Delfi, 1986	27
Egypt, Hatsepsut Temple, 1983	28
Libya, Cirene, 2009	29
Libya, Leptis Magna, 2009	30
Libya, Leptis Magna, 2009	30
Libya, Leptis Magna, 2009	31
Syria, Palmira, 2010	31
Jordan, Petra, 1994	32
Jordan, Petra, 1994	33
Jordan, Petra, 1994	34
Algeria, Timimun, 1987	35
Mexico, Zacatecas, 2000	36
Algeria, Timimun, 1987	37
India, Jaipur, 1985	38
Mexico, Mexico City, 2000	38
Mexico, Kabah, 2000	39
Nicaragua, Granada, 2006	40
Syria, Damascus, 2010	42
Italy, Venice, 1984	43
Russia, St. Petersburg, 1997	44
Italy, Florence, 1984	45
Mexico, Chichen Itza, 2000	45
Greece, Karpathos, 1988	46
Greece, Karpathos, 1988	47
Greece, Crete, 1979	47
Tunisia, Hammamet, 1985	48
Greece, Corfu, 1995	48
Greece, Pilion, 1985	49
Greece, Corfu, 1995	50
Greece, Kastelorizo, 1988	50
Greece, Kastelorizo, 1988	51

South Africa, Lambert's bay, 2007	51
Syria, Serjilla, 2010	52
France, Mont Cenis, 2010	53
Syria, Zenobia Castle, 2010	53
Syria, Serjilla, 2010	54
Italy, Erice, 2010	55
New York, 1998	56
Belgium, Dinant, 1991	56
Cina, Datong, 1999	57
Japan, Miyazima, 1992	58
Cina, Datong, 1999	58
Japan, Miyazima, 1992	59
Cina, Great Wall, 1999	60
Cina, Beijing, 1999	61
Syria, Bassra, 2010	61
Morocco, Atlas mountains, 1993	62
Mali, Dogon villages, 1987	63
Mali, Dogon villages, 1987	64
Mali, Mopti, 1987	65
Algeria, Sahara desert, 1986	66
Greece, Thassos, 2009	68
Algeria, Tademait, 1986	68
Algeria, Tademait, 1986	69
Algeria, Assekrem, 1986	69
Libya, Sahara desert, 2011	70
Libya, Sahara desert, 2011	72
New Zealand, Farewell Spit, 2009	73
New Zealand, Dunedin, Tunnel beach, 2009	74
New Zealand, Lake Wakatipu, 2009	75
New Zealand, Lake Tekapo, 2009	75
South Africa, Cape Town, 1997	76
Netherlands, Delft, 1992	76
Netherlands, Polders, 1992	77
Russia, Lake Baikal, 1999	78
Italy, Saline, 2011	79
Italy, Trapani, 2011	80
Italy, Trapani, 2011	81
Australia, Devil's Marbles, 2003	82
Australia, Devil's Marbles, 2003	82
New Zealand, Tongariro, 2009	cover
Australia, Uluru, 2003	back cover

